A Very Timely Article on Truck Farming

Lecture by Mr. R. T. Berry of the Tennessee Department of Agriculture

Fulton county is short on truck farmers. If we intend to give this matter attention, now is the time for its consideration. Following we print a good article on this subject from the pen of R. T. Berry, of the Agriculture Dept. of Tennessee. This article may be read with advantage to the small farmers of West Kentucky and Tennessee. If you are sick of low-priced cotton, the uncertainty of corn and can't raise alfalfa—get into the truck business. Hickman offers more than an average local market, and St. Louis shipments can be profitably made. Get out of the old rut—read the following article:

"Truck growing, like farming, is not a science, but an art, so I shall not attempt to lay down any hard and fast rules for men to follow. If they see fit to engage in growing vegetables for market. No two growers will agree upon all of the details of the growth of plants in the beds or their cultivation in the field, neither will any two pieces of land make the same response to the growers' efforts, though given identically the same treatment; nor will any variety give the same results when grown on different soils or by different men; but there are some general principles that are alike applicable to all growers and all soils, and it is to these general principles that I shall try to confine my remarks today. But before beginning the discussion of the details of truck growing I want first to compare for your benefit the advantages and disadvantages of truck growing as compared to general, or rather, staple farm crops.

"Chief among the advantages is that as a rule greater returns being received from lands devoted to truck growing, less land is required than for general farming, and this constitutes an advantage that will have the careful consideration of every man who is called upon to purchase land in this, the day of rapidly increasing prices on that kind of property.

"Another advantage which to my mind is of much greater importance than the one just mentioned, is the better opportunity offered for maintaining the fertility of our soil; no truck grower need ever allow his land to become run down if he makes any intelligent effort to prevent its doing so.

"Just here I want to discuss briefly the relative amount of plant food removed from the soil by a crop of corn and a crop of tomatoes, as this has a direct bearing on the problem of keeping up the fertility of the land.

"A crop of corn producing 30 bushels per acre will remove from the soil 51 pounds of nitrogen, 19.6 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 11.2 pounds of potash, and will give its total weight 11.88 per cent. of water; while a crop of tomatoes of 18000 pounds or 300 bushels will remove only 28.8 pounds of nitrogen, 9 pounds of phosphoric acid and 48.6 pounds of potash, and contain 93.64 per cent. water. At present valuation of these plant food, the corn takes from the soil $11.74 worth, while the tomatoes only take away $8.64 worth, and this in spite of the fact that the tomatoes remove more pounds of plant food than does the corn, but it is of the cheaper phosphoric acid and potash, while the corn takes away the more costly nitrogen of nearly twice the amount that the tomatoes do.

"Now, fortunately for the truck grower, in addition to the fact that his crop as a rule removes less nitrogen from the land than staple crops, he has the further advantage of being able to follow his vegetable crop with some leguminous one, such as cow peas or soy beans, that will gather nitrogen from the air and at the same time the stubble of the truck crop, leaves, vines, etc., in connection with the stubble of the peas or beans, will be constantly adding humus or organic matter to the soil.

"In view of the necessity for the free, even lavish use of commercial fertilizers or barnyard manure, which every trucker must make if he expects to grow profitable crops, and the further fact that no vegetable crop ever uses up all of the plant food placed there for their use, but leaves a considerable residue for the use of the legumes, and this in turn produces luxuriant crops of them, you can readily see what a great advantage the trucker possesses over the general farmer in the matter of keeping up his lands.

"The trucker is also compelled to practice a systematic rotation if he would avoid the different diseases which are liable to attack his crops.
If grown upon the same land year after year, and as truck crops remove varying amounts of plant food from the soil, just as do staple crops, the balance of the different elements is very easily maintained.

"You will probably understand better if I explain that one crop will remove more potash than another while the other will remove more nitrogen, and still another will take out more phosphoric acid, and if any one crop is growing continuously upon the same piece of land, that land becomes exhausted of the particular element of which that plant requires most, and it gets into such condition that it will not grow maximum crops of that one; but if it is grown in rotation with crops which require more of the other two, then the elements of plant food remains upon a more even balance and each crop does better in its turn than if grown continuously on the same land.

"Taking into consideration the remarkably small amount of plant food removed from the soil by fruit and vegetables as compared to the total weight of the crop, makes a definition that I once heard given of a truck grower very fitting. The definition was that he was "a man who put water for sale in funny packages."

"Another advantage is that less land being required upon which to operate, means more homes, and more homes means more churches, more schools and more of that coming in contact with each other in a social way, that constitutes for the average man and woman one of the chief charms of life, and without which the joy of living would be greatly lessened for the country dweller.

"So much land labor being necessary in truck growing, it offers much better opportunities for all the people of the community to get employment; even very small children can do a good deal of the work, such as picking berries transplanting tomatoe tying an helping to gather them; and in addition, the greatly increased tonnage produced per acre, which the railroads have to carry away, furnishes work for many extra men.

"One other advantage to which I wish to call your attention is the opportunity offered trucking districts of building up at the expense of other and usually distant places.

"Now you understand as well as I do that it is the money brought in from the sale of stuff that is exported or shipped that really adds to the

"Star Brand Shoes are Better" wealth of a community, and as but a small per cent. of the truck grown in West Tennessee is consumed here, but most of it being shipped to distant cities, it must add largely to our wealth. Practically all the crops are shipped to cities and money received for them is all spent or invested in the community where the stuff is grown, with the exception of the small per centage which is sent away for fertilizers.

"This is not so true of staple crops, except cotton, these being sold to men in the community and amounts to a change of ownership rather than an addition of wealth of that place.

"While it is absolutely necessary that we have food to eat and clothes to wear and food for our stock, it is only produce what we and they eat and wear out we are no better off at the end of the year than we were at the beginning, but rather the worse off, since we have to consider the time that is gone beyond recall, depreciation of value in the stock and tools and the depletion of the soil of the elements of fertility necessary for the production of the crop just consumed. This being true, it behooves any man to carefully consider every matter tending towards an increase of the crop above cost of growing.

"Now as to the disadvantages.
Chief among them in my section is the scarcity of labor, and so much hard work being required. Every man should have his labor arranged for in advance. Truck crops grown with the expectation of profitable returns will not admit of the neglect that ordinary farm crops will, and a difference of two or three days in the planting of the seed, putting them out in the field or incubation of the crop, frequently means the difference between a large profit and actual loss, and unless a man intends to give them attention just when they need it, he had better stick to general crops and let truck growing alone. Eternal vigilance and unceasing industry are the prices of success in this business. Another disadvantage about the crop is that it must be gathered just when it is ready—a day's delay means loss with almost any truck crop, but more especially with tomatoes, strawberries, cantal-oupes and other crops of that nature."

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride.

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trou-have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W.

GREAT TRANSFER POINT.

Speaking of steam and electric roads in general, the Charleston Courier ends an interesting editorial with this paragraph:

"There is one thing that is pretty sure, and that is if the Iron Mountain does not build that branch to Hickman, Mr. Honck will do so just as soon as the money market will allow. The Illinois Central is building a branch road from Clinton to Hickman, and this will make Hickman a great transfer point for some road, and it will not be long before some road finds it out."

A FINE ADVERTISEMENT.

Walter L. Brown, president of the Industrial League, has a unique plan for advertising his property here, and incidentally the town at large.

Those who saw a demonstration of this plan at the Lyric Monday night were delighted. In short, the plan is simply giving a free motion and view picture show, showing hand-somely colored views of Hickman—her factories, residence and business sections, the league grounds, river and railroad terminals. In fact about 120 different views which show the city off in great shape. Hickman is the logical head of the deep waterways, which will come into prominence as soon as the Panama canal is finished, and in this connection 3000 feet of motion picture film is shown, giving some idea of the great construction work going on at Panama as the big project nears completion.

In no instance are these pictures faked or exaggerated; it is merely a plan of showing what we have, which could not otherwise be presented without a visit to Hickman. If this plan fails to get results, we will be fooled. In fact, it is really an eye-opener to many of our citizens who do not take the trouble to observe their surroundings.

Mr. Brown proposes to show these pictures all over this section of the country and the campaign he is inaugurating should be worth many thousands of dollars to Hickman.

The towboat Jno. R. Summers was almost destroyed by fire at Cairo, Saturday afternoon. The boat is owned by Capt. Fred Bennett of 3414 Washington and the loss is fully covered by insurance. She was built at Parkersburg, W. Va., 1901 and was used for towing. She was a stern wheel boat, 108 feet in length, 21 ft. beam, and a depth of 3 and a half feet. She carried a crew of ten men, the boat cost $17,000 and is fully insured.

In the case of J. W. Ward against R. H. Miles, tried before Judge Naylor, Monday, a hung jury resulted. Miles had rented a small farm from Ward (the Henry Pollock place) and took possession. Ward ordered him to vacate because he had not given proper security for the payment of the rent on the place. Miles claims it was a distinct understanding that no security was necessary; Ward says it is just to the contrary. Half the jury believed Mr. Ward's story; the other half believed what Miles said. The average jurymen hears some mighty funny stories on the witness stand.

BIG SNOW FALLS

Snow and Freezing Weather Visits This Section.

Real winter weather struck this section Saturday when snow began falling and continued until it reached a depth of about 3 inches followed by a temperature as low as 4 degrees below zero.

Business was practically suspended the first part of the week on this account.

Water works, or pipes, in about three-fourth of the residences of Hickman froze and burst, and the local plumbers have at least 30 days work ahead of them. The biggest item of damage from the cold snap will be these repairs which will cost our citizens in the neighborhood of $2,000. The Hickman Steam Laundry will be out $100 on repairs in their plant.

This is the most severe weather we have had for some time.

The entire north is in the throes of a blizzard.

ALL DAY SERVICE.

Nov. 1st, the Hickman Ice & Coal Co. will inaugurate an all day electric light service. The day current will be especially appreciated by those using electric motors. With the exception of the past few months, day current was limited to the fan season only.

A contract has been closed for a new engine and generator, direct connected. The generator will be 125 K. V. A., 3 phase machine, producing an alternating current, the same as the big machine now supplying the light system.

While the installation of the new machine will mean purchasing of new fans and motors, this cost will be offset by the satisfaction of knowing that we are to have continuous service. Much of the steam and gasoline power now in use here will be done away with in preference to the electric power which is cheaper, cleaner and more convenient.

NUTE VICK DEAD.

Nute C. Vick, age 52 years, died at his home near Alex Rice's place, near this city, Saturday, of Bright's disease. Burial Sunday at Brownsville. Deceased leaves five small children—fatherless and motherless.

S. P. Henry returned to Nashville, yesterday, to receive additional treatment on account of a recent operation.

GREATEST MEDICINE ON EARTH

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., writes:—"I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors. I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol, and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

We want every one in this vicinity who is troubled with chronic colds, coughs, or pulmonary troubles, to come and get a bottle of Vinol.

If it does not go to the seat of trouble, heal the inflammation and stop the cough, we will cheerfully return every cent paid us for it. This shows our faith, and proves that you take no chances.

The general merchandise store of Murdaugh & Latta at Centerville was broken into Thursday night and a considerable amount of shoes, shirts and other merchandise taken. The thieves have not been caught.

Nell's New Year's Eve By Temple Bailey

Was there any place where she could be really quiet?

The Snow Began to Fall.

Nell went to the door and looked out. As far as her eyes could see there was wintry whiteness and through the purple shadows of the coming night a lone a few lights, like stars.

Each light represented a farmhouse, and each house, like the one in which Nell was staying, was full of happy, noisy people.

And Nell was not happy, she wanted quiet. Like a hunted animal she looked this way and that for some place where she might be alone.

On the crest of a hill, far up the road, stood the schoolhouse where she taught. It was closed now and dark.

"I will go there," Nell said to herself, and just then a voice behind her called: "Supper is ready."

"I don't want any," Nell said wearily. "I'm going out for a little while, Mrs. McGregor. I'll be back by ten."

The snow began to fall softly as she left the house, and by the time she reached the school it was beginning to drift against the fences.

There was no fire within, but Nell lighted one, and when the warmth began to steal into the room, she drew the one big chair close to the hearth and in the peaceful loneliness gave herself up to her thoughts.

But she was not to remain in peace long. There was a sound of sleigh bells without, heavy steps on the threshold, and she looked up to see the burly form of a young farmer in the doorway.

"Well, well," he said, "I saw the light and came in. Who would have dreamed that you would be here alone?"

Nell smiled wearily. "I came to be quiet."

"Then you don't want me."

"Oh, sit down," she said, somewhat ungraciously.

But he stood by the fireplace and looked down at her.

"What's the matter?" he asked abruptly.

"Nothing," faintly.

"Don't tell me that; I know better."

"If I tell you," she asked, "you mustn't give me any advice. I have had so much advice I hate it."

He sat down beside her. "Tell ahead," he said, "and I'll promise to listen like the Sphinx."

"You see, it is this way," she said; "my uncle in town is rich. He is a miserly old man, and he made me miserable when I lived with him. I'm not going to tell you about my childhood, how little love there was in it, and how I was starved spiritually and mentally, as well as physically. When I grew old enough to understand that he could give me things, and had not because he wanted to save and save, I left him and came here to teach; and now he has written to me to come back, and I don't want to go, yet he is sick and old and alone. I told Mrs. McGregor and she tells me to stay here. Then all the family talked about it and everybody advised. They meant well—but I couldn't stand it, I—I don't want to go, but I must."

He started to say something, then checked himself.

"I'd like to break that promise," he said.

"No, you mustn't," she said firmly. "You've all been so good to me here, and if you," she caught her breath, "join the others in asking me to stay, it will make it so hard for me to go."

"He doesn't deserve much at your hands," the man stated.

"I know," she said wearily, "but tomorrow I begin a new year, and I don't want to begin it wrong, yet I don't know the right."

"I don't believe much in saying things," the young farmer remarked; "my policy is to do them. And now, are you going to stay here in this lonely place much longer? It is snowing and it is late."

"I suppose I ought to go," she said doubtfully, "but it is so lovely here in the silence."

"Look here," he said suddenly, "don't you keep your tea things in that little cupboard? I have got to go to town, and when I come back I'll bring something for a little supper, and we can watch the old year out. Then I'll take you home in the sleigh."

"How good of you." She held out her hand to him. "You haven't bothered me with advice, and you are doing something to make me comfortable. That is just like you, Jack Norton."

He blushed a little, this big kindly man, who looked upon the little woman from the city as a being from another sphere; she was so dainty, so different from the girls in his own village.

Nell knew what she was doing when she told him not to ask her to stay; she had known for a long time of the question that trembled on his lips. She knew he wanted to marry her, as a woman knows who is wise in the ways of men.

She thought of the life she might lead if she married him, a life in the big farmhouse, sunny in summer and secure in winter.

Then she thought of her life with her uncle in a dark apartment in the streets of the city. She knew that, in a way, it was a false idea of duty that would take her back. Yet she had to go, some force that was in her seemed compelling her.

The wind blew in great blasts against the little house, the snow had drifted up to the window sills, and white lines of it pointed across the window pane like ghostly fingers. Dragging footsteps came up the path. Nell listened. It was not Jack Norton; these were the steps of an old man. From the door a voice quavered:

"Are you there, Nell?"

"Uncle," she said, fearfully, "how did you come here?"

"I met a young man down the road," he said. "I wanted him to guide me to the McGregors. He told me you were here."

"You didn't answer my letter," the old man went on, when she had made him sit down.

"Are you going back with me?"

Now that she was face to face with his meanness, it seemed to Nell that she could never go with him.

"I don't know," she faltered.

"Here's a grateful girl," the old man stormed, and just then the sleigh bells jingled and, in another moment Jack Norton was in the room, his arms full of bundles, his eyes gleaming.

"So this is your uncle," he said. "I thought so when I directed him here. You'll stay and have supper with us, won't you, sir? We are going to see the old year out and the new year in."

"Who are you?" the old man growled.

"I'm Jack's eyes flashed from Nell's cowering figure to the grimness of the uncle. Then suddenly he took things in his own hands.

"I'm the man your niece is going to marry," he said.

"What?" the old man shouted.

"I'm the man your niece is going to marry," he said securely. He had seen the joy in Nell's face.

"But she is going home with me."

Jack shook his head. "No, she is going home with me. You can come whenever you wish, sir. The old house is big enough for twenty uncles, or if you like it better, there is a cottage at the edge of the farm where you could stay if you wished."

The old man flashed a crafty glance at him. "Would it cost me anything?" he asked.

"Nothing," said Jack.

"Then marry her," said the old uncle, "and I'll come and live in the cottage alone."

Nell's face was in her hands, and, as Jack bent over her, she whispered, "Oh, I can't let you do it!"

"It is the only way that you can make my New Year happy," he told her, and as she looked up into his face she knew that what he said was true.

SAME OLD GAME.

It is noticeable, that every time the Interurban subject begins to be agitated, the I. C. begins a survey of a line from Clinton to Hickman. This is easily understood by any close observer. The I. C. will keep out competition as long as it can, for its officers very well known, the establishment of an Interurban line from Fulton to Hickman would effect railroad freight rates, because it would put our business men in touch with the river rates, which would be a big saving to the Fulton merchants and their customers all over the country, besides giving our merchants an advantage of low freight rates not heretofore enjoyed by them.—Fulton Weekly News.

LEGISLATURE IS ORGANIZED

Officers Selected and Message Of Governor McCreary Is Read To Both Houses

TERRELL IS SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Many Speeches Are Made and Great Good Feeling and Harmony Marks Opening Day of the New Session.

Frankfort.—The reading of Gov. McCreary's message marked the first day's session of the 1912 Legislature. Both branches of the General Assembly lost little time in organizing shortly after the noon hour, and then each named a committee to notify the Governor that the Legislature was ready for business.

The names of James E. Stone and F. H. McCubbin, the latter a Republican from Jefferson county, were placed in nomination for chief clerk of the House, and Mr. Stone was elected by a vote of seventy-six to twenty-four.

Oscar Wicker, of Crittenden county, was elected assistant clerk without opposition, as was Miss Mary Roberts of Mercer county, enrolling clerk; Oscar Vest, Carroll county, Sergeant-at-Arms; Joseph F. Richardson, Muhlenberg county, doorkeeper; T. Shipman Wasson, Frankfort, janitor; Albert Salyers, Franklin county, and Laurence Cook, Caldwell county, Brethren county; R. B. Dunn, Boyle county, cloakroom keepers; Charles Hutton, Brethren county; R. B. Dunn, Boyle county, Isaac Hinchman, Logan county, and James Ekkeston, Gallatin county.

Mr. Stone then called for nominations for speaker, and the names of Claude B. Terrell and R. C. McClure, the latter a Republican from Lawrence county, were placed before the body. The roll was called and seventy-six representatives voted for Mr. Terrell, while twenty-four voted for Mr. McClure. In compliment to Mr. Terrell, Mr. McClure voted for him, and Mr. Terrell responded by voting for Mr. McClure.

Representatives Young, Brown, Schorberth and Thompson were appointed a committee by Mr. Stone to escort Mr. Terrell to the chair. Mr. Schorberth was the first to reach him, and, extending his hand, congratulated him warmly.

Elwood Hamilton, of Frankfort, introduced a resolution, which was adopted, calling upon the speaker to name a Committee on Rules to consist of nine members, including himself, as an ex-officio member, and that he also appoint the other standing committees of the House.

Another resolution, providing that the rules which governed the proceedings of the old House, govern the present body until new rules were adopted, also was adopted.

At this point the committee that had been appointed to wait upon the Governor and inform him that the House was ready for business, reported that the Governor had sent his message. On motion, the session was extended until the Governor's message could be read. This consumed an hour, after which the House session was adjourned.

The Message.

The Governor's message deals with all of the various topics discussed throughout the campaign. His recommendations are all in line with the platform pledges of his party. All points are treated at considerable length and the position of the administration is made quite clear. The message closes with this tribute to the new state house:

"This gives me an opportunity to put on record, in a public way, and in this first message of my second administration, as a part of the history of Kentucky, that the new Capitol is a State house worthy of Kentucky and an honor to our people. It is a splendid achievement, one of the most beautiful, impressive and attractive of all the structures of its type in our country, and the people have a right to be proud of their Capitol and of the work done in it, and gratified that the whole history of its construction and furnishing is free from reproach, and is a testimonial of honesty, skill and capacity."

"I am thankful that I was honored by being the first Governor inaugurated in this splendid and beautiful building."

Senate Organizes.

The Kentucky Senate was called to order at 12:10 o'clock by Lieut. Gov. McDermott and the Rev. Robert L. Cowan, of the Southern Presbyterian church, opened the session with prayer.

The roll of Senators was called, and all answered. The nineteen new Senators came to the Clerk's desk and took the oath of office, administered by Chief Clerk George H. Peters.

The president of the Senate announced that the next thing in order was the election of officers of the Senate.

Senator Phil Beard, of Shelby, chairman of the Senate Democratic caucus, nominated all the Democratic candidates, and Senator J. E. Higgerstaff, of Warren, nominated all the Republican candidates, and the ballots resulted as follows:

For Chief Clerk—George H. Peters, Democrat, 31; Jett W. Hines, Republican, 5.

Assistant Clerk—Jesse Alverson, Democrat, 31; Sam Ward, Republican, 5.

Enrolling Clerk—Miss Jennie McDonald, Democrat, had no opposition and received all the votes.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Gates Young, Democrat, 32; Dennis Hertram, Republican, 6.

Doorkeeper—Sam J. Catlett, Democrat, 32; H. J. Oliver, 6.

Janitor—Murray Brown, Democrat, received all the votes.

Cloakroom Keeper—George Finn, Democrat, received all the votes.

Pages—John Rhea Maxey, of Simpson; Jack Moody, of Monroe, and Owen Sanders, of Taylor, all Democrats, were elected over the three Republicans by a vote of 32 to 6.

Before the President pro tem, of the Senate was elected, Lieut. Gov. McDermott delivered his address, and was warmly applauded at its conclusion.

Clerk Peters Presides.

Lieut. Gov. McDermott then vacated the chair and Chief Clerk Peters presided during the election of a president pro tem. Senator W. V. Eaton, of Metracken, was nominated by the Democrats and Senator Joe F. Bosworth, of Bell, was nominated by the Republicans. Eaton received 32 votes and Bosworth 6, Bosworth voting for Eaton and Eaton voting for Bosworth which is a senatorial courtesy.

Senator Newcomb offered a resolution providing that until the Senate shall adopt its own rules it shall operate under Roberts' Rules of Order, provided, however, that nothing in the Roberts Rules of Order shall prevent a majority of the Senate from taking any action it sees fit to take. The resolution was adopted without objection.

Senator Ed Hogg's resolution providing for a committee composed of the President of the Senate, the President pro tem, and the chairman of the Democratic caucus, to draft rules to govern the Senate was adopted without opposition.

Senator Eaton's motion to appoint a committee to wait on the House and the Governor and inform them that the Senate was organized and ready for business was adopted, and Senators Eaton, L. W. Arnett and Ryan were appointed on the committee.

Senator Bertram's resolution authorizing the president of the Senate to appoint all the standing committees of the Senate, was adopted without objection.

Senator Joe Bosworth made a speech presenting the president of the Senate with a miniature gavel, tied with a green ribbon. He said he hoped the green colors would not be objectionable to the president. The Lieutenant-Governor said he appreciated the gift and said the colors were very acceptable, and that while the gavel was small, he hoped it would be large enough to maintain good order at all times.

Senator Louis Arnett's resolution inviting all the ministers of the white churches in Frankfort to take turn about in opening the Senate each day with prayer, was adopted.

A communication from former Secretary of State Brainerd, as to automobile receipts and making several recommendations, was read in full.

Private Secretary to the Governor Thomas Smith, then announced a message from the Governor. The message was read in full.

On motion of Senator Graham 250 copies of the message for each Senator was ordered printed.

Senator Thomas offered a resolution authorizing the president of the Senate to appoint a stenographer and a messenger for his own use, and it was adopted without opposition. The Senate adjourned till 12 o'clock Wednesday.

Whisky Taxes for December.

Grant L. Roberts, deputy collector of internal revenue, of this city, collected during the month of December the sum of $223,634.07 in taxes on whisky taken out of bond, which is a decrease of $2,944 as compared with December of last year. In November, 1910, the collections at the Frankfort deputy collector's office amounted to $275,069.63 on whisky, and for November, this year, the amount collected was $271,467.91, or a decrease from last year of $3,601. Although the two months show a slight decrease from last year, the fact that nearly a half million dollars was collected in revenue here by Uncle Sam in two months shows that the Frankfort distillers must be doing a big business.

Mrs. W. A. Hinshaw filed a suit against J. H. Pickett this week. In her petition she prays for the restraining order to keep Pickett from landing any of his ferry boats within 400 yards of the Hinshaw landing. She also prays $1000 damage for the use of the landing.

B. G. Hale, Jr., Asst. Cashier of the Peoples Bank, and wife will leave Hickman soon, so we are informed.

Mr. F. E. Luttrell, of Hickman, Ky., has bought a farm and located at Crosby in this county. We acknowledge a pleasant call from him while in the city Tuesday. Mr. Luttrell said that it was possible that he would go into the mercantile business at Crosby.—Searcy (Ark.) News.

WILL THE I. C. BUILD? Maneuvers Around Hickman May Mean Another Road.

The usual amount of inquiry is following in the wake of the Illinois Central Railroad Company's movements in this section, but no definite information is as yet forthcoming.

It is true the company had their surveyors here in December, and a line was run from Hickman to Clinton, at which point the I. C. operates.

At the present time, corps of surveyors are engaged in compiling an estimate of the cost of construction of the C. M. & G., the new railroad which was completed into Hickman from Iyersburg last May. For what purpose? This is an unknown quantity so far as the public is concerned.

Various reasons might be advanced. It might be that the I. C. contemplates the purchase of the C. M. & G., or they may be ascertaining if the road value is sufficient to warrant additional financial assistance—but we cannot say that either of these surmises embraces the truth.

At any rate, the I. C. has a card up its sleeve. They have made a complete survey of a line from Hickman to Clinton, and should they build this short line, what advantage would they derive without a southern outlet?

It is not only apparent, but a fact that if the I. C. had a line via Hickman to Memphis, they would shorten their present route something like 25 miles, which is a big item in the matter of hauling a large number of daily trains and in the matter of saving time. The purchase of the C. M. & G. would be a logical solution to the whole thing. If they cannot make such a deal, they may build a parallel line, as far as the law will permit, and tap their present line to the left of Iyersburg. In that case the Hickman-Clinton link would materialize, and we would find ourselves on one of the big system's trunk lines.

On the other hand, the whole thing may be a bluff to scare off the contemplated interurban line or forestall a continuation of the C. M. & G. to the northeast. It is an old game to spend a few hundred dollars surveying for the purpose of freezing out the "small fry" and getting them to abandon their contemplated projects.

Whatever course the I. C. may pursue, however, we are in line for a northeastern railroad connection of some kind during the present year, as there are three chances to win against one to lose. In self-defense the I. C. may be compelled to do more than drive stakes in the farms of Fulton county. Fulton, Clinton and other nearby towns are sore on high freight rates and will do their best towards promoting any project that will give them river connection to Hickman and reduce their freight rates. The time is ripe for action and we shall see more railroad building at Hickman before the winter passes.

In the meantime, the Kentucky Southwest Electric Railway Company is moving ahead with its plans to build a network of interurban lines throughout Western Kentucky this year, and we are informed that President of the C. M. & G., proposes to extend his road from Hickman north to Metropolis, Ills. The Hon. Mr. from Charleston, Mo., to Hickman is also a possibility.

So we shall see—what we shall see.

L. C. Ent representing the Shaw Mfg. Co., was here this week making collections of part payment on 3200 acres of land recently sold to our people. The land is part of the extensive holdings of the company in the lower bottom. Ent carried a big bunch of money away with him.

Florence, little daughter of Mrs. Kate Webb-Smith, was slightly burned Sunday when her clothing caught fire from an open grate. Had the mother been present and acted quickly, the little tot might have been burned to death.

Lock Donaldson and wife and Mrs. Griggs and children, of Tiptonville were here Wednesday enroute to Florida to spend the winter.

R. F. B. Lagan and wife, of Herndon, Mo., arrived in Hickman, yesterday to visit Cue Threlkeld and wife and other relatives.

FOUR GENERATIONS PRESENT.

It is a little unusual that four generations participate in a celebration together, but such was the case in the birthday celebration held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Ellison, Tuesday, in honor Mrs. A. M. Ellison's 80th birthday. The four generations were represented by Mrs. A. M. Ellison, possibly the oldest citizen of Hickman, her son, L. P. Ellison, his daughter, Mrs. Lewis Kilpatrick, her 10 month's old daughter, little Miss Alice Brooks Kilpatrick.

A boundiful dinner was served on this occasion, at which were present the entire Ellison family including Mrs. Ellison's children and her grandchildren. It is hardly necessary to say that the family reunion and hospitality of this home were enjoyed. The Courier joins the friends and family in wishing that Grandma Ellison may live to celebrate many more birthdays.

Milligan was caught in Louisville Saturday and is now in jail here awaiting trial which will occur in circuit court next week.

The dance and entertainment given on Thursday night of last week was a novel entertainment, and quite a treat. An Italian troupe furnished music for the occasion, rendering a musical program before the dance began, and a large number of club members were in attendance. A large crowd of Union City young folks, chaperoned by Mrs. Wells, Miss Ruth Edwards, of Mayfield, Miss Lucile Robbins, of New Madrid, Miss Mayhelle Lyons, of Eddyville, and Mrs. Will Hubbard were out of town guests. Punch was served.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mrs. Joe Noonon Falls on Ice And May Not Live.

Mrs. Joe Noonon, wife of the veteran jailer of Fulton county, slipped and fell on the ice at her home in this city, Monday, and sustained injuries from which it is doubtful if she will recover. In the fall Mrs. Noonon's head struck the icy floor causing concussion of the brain and bodily injuries. Up to the hour of going to press she is still unconscious, and her attending physician, Dr. S. W. Lutten, considers her condition very critical.

The accident happened while Mrs. Noonon was assisting her husband in carrying breakfast to the prisoners in the county jail beneath the Noonon residence. The fall occurred, however, on the porch just as she started to descend the stairs.

The many friends of the family hope that the accident will not prove fatal.

RICHESON CONFESSES.

A case of wide spread interest has been that of Rev. Clarence Richeson, a popular preacher at Boston. Last Monday he confessed that he murdered Avis Linnell and her unborn child.

His mind breaking under the strain of the nightmare that has filled his waking hours, Richeson confessed to his attorneys, handing them a written statement admitting his guilt.

The confession says: "Deeply penitent for my sin and earnestly desiring as far as my power lies to make amends, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense for which I am indicted. Heinous as is my crime, God has not fully abandoned me, and my conscience will not admit of my still further wrongdoing, by a public trial, for whose pure living life I have destroyed. I can only wish to live because within some prison wall I might in some small measure redeem my sinful past and help some other despairing soul and at least find favor with my God."

Courier's Home Circle

A Happy New Year to every reader of this department.

Facing The New Year.

The clock struck 12 on Dec. 31st, and we are ushered into a New Year—with how many plans for the future—new resolves, many aims! But are made to be broken. But let us welcome the untrodden paths and grasp the new conditions with a firm hand, grateful for the blessings the old year has brought to us.

How the years come and vanish! When the Christmas bells have ceased their ringing we stand facing the New Year which comes with timeless pace out of the future and we wonder what it will bring us. We are certain of nothing, that in our hands is vested the power to make the year one of character growth—if the old year has brought to us failures with the New Year the tide may turn. Failure is sometimes the stepping stone to coming success. The past is gone but the present is left us in which to work. We must conquer difficulties and not let them conquer us. Then what was considered a possibility may become a reality.

It takes what seems much like drudgery to do anything well. Let us during the new-born year take all the good that lies within our reach. The beauty and the glory of the world are close at hand but some see nothing but clay. Let us hold fast to duty. This will be of value in the storm or in the sunshine. The most successful life is the one that has done the most for his fellow man. Happy thou is the man who has that in his nature that acts on others as the April sun on violets.

Happy New Year! What a blessed phrase! Speak it from the heart, and then strive to make every one's New Year a happy year and your will be happy indeed.

The days, weeks and years slip away like water in a running stream. Time's great clock never loses a moment's pass, and our eager hands are not able to detain them. We cannot keep back the flying years, but we can and should keep the blessings they bring. Hold fast to the lessons they have taught. Keep the memory of their joys. Enrich every day of life with the garnered wealth of the days behind.

Don't give away your good resolutions; keep them. Don't make the same mistake in 1912 that you made in 1911. The more you laugh in 1912 the less occasion you will have for sighing in after years. Just consider that 1912 will be the last of your life and get all the happiness possible out of it. Don't lose your temper in 1912. You will need it when agents and other fakirs call on you. "The good die young;" don't let that

Crumbs of Comfort.

Year by year, for twenty centuries the story of the night at Bethlehem has been told and retold. To day no household in Christendom, in town or village or on distant prairie can plead the ignorance in which Bethlehem then lay. If the door is shut on the Christ-child today, it is not from lack of knowledge, but from churchliness or indifference.

All the old troubles questions of the origin and destination of the Galilee carpenter have passed.

All the medieval worriment in discriminating between human and divine has gone, all the puzzled inquiry into the miraculous. No longer is mankind stirred over the non-essential. Theories of Him fade away, dogmas of His nature lose their charm. His gentleness has conquered. His influence continues and widens. Slowly brightening, the gleam that touches him spreads through the world. His spirit moves on the face of civilization and makes it kinder every generation. The New Year of 1912 will find more living close to the Golden Rule than any year in the history of the world. This makes family life sweeter and eases the bitterness of failure and ignorance and all life's incompleteness. That wonder-working personality was never so potent as today—so insistent and tenderly sure. Under a thousand forms, creeds and names, men serve Him.

New Year greetings are greetings of good will. How they soften hard hearts, purify base desires, sweeten bitter thoughts, and make every deed purer and holier; every wish kinder and tenderer. Let hearts expand, sympathies enlarge, and good will reign. Let benedictions drop from lips, and substantial gifts fall from overflowing hands. Make cheerless homes radiant and hopeless hearts to thrill with unspeakable gladness. Forgive your enemies. Bury the past. Rise above the mean and petty resentments which you may have harbored against those who have not used you well. Be generous.

SNOWED UNDER SUNDAY.

E. E. Small, who was stabbed in a row with Will Brooks at East Prairie, on Christmas day, succumbed to his injuries Wednesday, January 3. Coroner Howie held an inquest, the jury charged that Small received his death wound from Will Brooks and that the assault was felonious.

The knowing ones assert that there will be some very beneficial legislation enacted at Frankfort this winter. Here's hoping that the "knowing ones" are correct in their surmise. If the rest of the bunch are as likely as Bill Frost, the Senate is O. K.

We have been forced to raise the price of all coffee and our famous Granger will now sell at 30c instead of 25c. It is the equal of any 45c coffee sold in Hickman.—Bettersworth & Prather.

Jno. W. Smith and wife have moved back from Rocky, Okla.—the land of promise—to the land of reality. Its hard to leave old Fulton county.

Mrs. J. T. Scott, who recently had an operation performed at Paducah hospital is reported making rapid progress towards recovery.

Miss Vera Stone, of Milan, Tenn., is the guest of her brothers, L. A. and A. A. Stone and families.

The Christmas crop of purple neckties and embroidered suspenders was certainly a bumper one.

MORE LAWLESSNESS.

A few days ago a tragedy occurred at Hickman, Ky., the like of which may happen in many parts of the South. Some white men and a negro, under the influence of liquor, met a well-to-do negro farmer and made trouble for him. Then they attempted to shoot him and the result was that some of the assaulting party were killed. From the best information, the negro was defending his home and his life.

Now some of the white people who will not work themselves and do not want anybody else to work have sent notices to land owners that they must not rent to negroes in 1912. They have also notified negroes by circular that if they rent land they may wake up some morning dead.

The white people are determined to protect the industrious negroes; first because it is right and secondly, because they need the negro labor.

Any negro who behaves himself in any part of this country, who is industrious and respectful to white people should be protected in all of his legal rights by his white fellow citizens.

If white men who refuse to work themselves could succeed in running the negroes out, their next move would be to run the better class of white people out if they could command sufficient forces.—Commercial Appeal, Dec. 30, 1911.

Becoming enraged because John Clay had given his wife a pair of shoes at her request, Frank Turner, more or less of a town character, and an ex-convict, Saturday, went to the home of Clay, at Wickliffe, called him to the front gate and asked him if it was true that he had done the act of charity. Clay replied he had, whereupon Turner opened fire with a 41 special revolver at short range. Clay fell dead with six bullet holes through his body.

The low price of cotton in the fact that 20 per cent of the crop of Fulton county is still in the field is really anything but a pleasant state of affairs.

North Dakota Wolf Killer.
In crossing the Big Pembina on his way to Walhalla the other day Hans Brattle of Osnabrock had a chance to put in a few stunts in the way of hunting. A big timber wolf crossed the road just ahead of his team and in trying to jump the fence next the road got caught and tangled up in the barbed wire.

Brattle had no gun, so it was a case of go for the beast with nature's weapons, which he did, and in trying to get the toe hold managed to get a good grip on the wolf's tail. The wolf then made a few hurried circles around Mr. Brattle's head and landed head first kerplunk in the sleigh box, dead as a door nail, and Hans continued on his way to Walhalla after filling and lighting his corncob.—Osnab-

Polishing Powder for Glass.
A polishing powder for glass can be made by rubbing down calcined magnesia with pure benzine until a mass is formed sufficiently soft as to allow drops to be pressed out of it.
The mixture should be kept in closely stoppered glass bottles to retain the very volatile benzine. A little should be placed on a pad of wadding or cotton and the glass rubbed with it.

A Hero in A Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck, himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented.
"They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes "After I had taken other so called cures for years, without being benefited and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only

The Courier's Weekly Sermon
BY PASTOR RUSSELL
SUBJECT

PASTOR RUSSELL AT
THE CHINESE PARIS

No Burning Hell For Heathen
Mentioned in the Bible.

Rightly Understood the Bible's Message is One of Great Joy For All People—Tells That He Himself Was Once on Life's Sea Without Chart or Compass.

Shanghai, China,
Jan. 7th. — The Committee of Foreign Missions Investigation seemed pleased with its reception here.
Special honors
were accorded General Hall and Pastor Russell,
the former because of his official position as second in command of the United States Army, the latter as the Chairman of the Committee. We report Pastor Russell's discourse:

Pastor Russell greatly enjoyed his visit to the Chinese Paris. It was an experience he had longed for from childhood. Early in life he had inquired respecting the fate of the heathen and had received the answer that "without faith it is impossible to please God," and that "there is none other Name given under heaven whereby we must be saved" than the name of Jesus, and through faith in His blood. He then inquired the fate of the unsaved, and got the answer of all "orthodox creeds," that such would be consigned for all eternity to a place where they would suffer indescribable tortures.

Supposing that the Bible was the foundation of these creeds he abandoned the Bible, and for nearly two years was on the sea of life without chart or compass, seeking after a true God not less noble and loving and just than the very best of his human creatures.

Feeling sure that a wise, just, loving God, having made man with mental capacity to appreciate himself, would make a revelation of His character and His purposes, he sought for a book containing such a revelation of the Divine will as his heart and head could accept. Having abandoned the Bible, he sought the teachings of other sacred books of the world, only to find them still more disappointing.

Hungry of soul, he returned to the Bible, thinking possibly he had studied it before through the distorted spectacles of human creeds. His fresh investigations brought a blessing! Nowhere had he found so glorious a representation of the true, Divine character as in Jesus and His teachings!
Truly, he said, "Never man spake like this man!" Finally he saw the great difficulty which had blinded himself and others to the Divine love and gracious plan of the Bible.

The Resurrection of the Dead.
This discovery was that the penalty for sin is not everlasting torture after death, and that the Bible does not so teach. It declares, "The wages of sin is death." "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." (Romans vi. 23; Ezekiel xviii. 20.) He perceived that for six thousand years the world has been suffering the very penalty which God declared to Adam, "Thou shalt surely die." "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, until thou return to the ground from whence thou wast taken." He sought the Bible remedy for all this and found that no remedy could be applied only as the Divine sentence should be settled for Adam by a substitute; that then only could the curse be removed. In full harmony with all this came the Scriptural presentation that the Only Begotten Son of God had left His spiritual plane of glory and become a Man, that "He by the grace of God should taste death for every man"; "Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures, and rose again for our justification."

Pursuing this Bible study he soon found that the hope of humanity centers in the resurrection of the dead: "As by a man came death, by a Man also comes the resurrection of the dead; for as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive—every man in his own order," or rank. (1 Corinthians xv. 21, 22.)

Two Very Different Salvations.

The Pastor was glad as he thought of the hundreds of millions of patient Chinese who will have a share in the great redemption secured by the death of Jesus, and not only so, but their ancestors, thousands of millions, will also have a share, for "Jesus Christ by the grace of God tasted death for every man"; "He is a propitiation [satisfaction] for our sins [the Church's sins], and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." Here are the two different salvations secured through the death of Jesus.
Only one of these has yet been made effective—"ours"—not the world's. Ours is to be the First Resurrection, the world's is to be a subsequent one.

The elect Church, of which Jesus is the Head, and his saintly followers the members, will reign for a thousand years, overthrowing sin and death, breaking the shackles of ignorance and superstition, uplifting humanity out of sin and degradation to full human perfection. The earth is to be man's Paradise, which will reach perfection by the close of Messiah's reign. All who then reject this light will be de-scored in the Second Death.

Pills do this.
It's the best proof, for it comes

C. A. Watson, Hickman, Ky., says:
"For some years I was a victim of kidney complaint. There were pains in the small of my back, which were always more severe when I stooped or lifted. My back ached at night and when I arose in the morning, I was very lame. I became easily tired and occasionally suffered from nervous spells. Headaches bothered me.
I was subject to dizzy spells during which there was a blurring of my sight. When I caught cold, it settled on my kidneys and at such times, the passages of the secretions became too frequent. This was particularly annoying during the night and I was often forced to arise several times. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Helm & Ellison's Drug Store and two days after using them, I received great relief. After I had taken the contents of this box I was cured. I never lose an opportunity in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers and shall always keep them in the house."
